🌸 A Step Toward Wellness: Sanitary Napkin Vending Machine Installed

By Hadhiya

At Mitatronics, we believe that true progress is not only measured by technological advancements but also by how we care for our people – especially when it comes to health and dignity.

As part of our ongoing workplace wellness initiatives, we're proud to share the installation of a sanitary napkin vending machine within the factory premises. This small but powerful addition supports menstrual hygiene and comfort for our female team members.

To ensure everyone felt confident using the machine, a refresher training session was conducted, revisiting both the usage and essential hygiene practices. This followed a more in-depth training we held last year — reinforcing our continued commitment to health awareness.

This thoughtful initiative was met with overwhelming appreciation from our staff, especially given that women make up a major part of the Mitatronics family. The gesture reflected our values of respect, care, and inclusivity — and highlighted the kind of environment we aim to create: one where everyone feels supported, safe, and valued.

This isn't just an improvement in facilities — it's a reflection of the culture we're building together at Mitatronics.
